Kristy ROBINSON

My principal place of residence is in the Whakatāne-Ōhohe Community Board area.

Kia ora. I'm Kristy Robinson. I live in Ōhohe with my son, Elijah. I have a background in visual arts, education, broadcasting/media and the social sector. I am a Tech Pā mentor, and an Arts Whakatāne committee member. It is important to balance economic, social, cultural and environmental needs. We need not sacrifice one for the other if we face issues collaboratively, creatively and practicably. We are culturally rich and have a beautiful environment to share with the world. We have what we need to develop a thriving local economy. I support growing our local tourism industry, and we have the right setting and infrastructure to attract designers, artisans, innovators and investors. We have the potential to become a destination for smart, clean, cutting edge industry and vibrant culture. I look forward to hearing your ideas, and working together to cultivate a healthy, creative, prosperous community.
